

New Professionals Section (New Pros)

We are an engaged community of young professionals eager to help you drive your career forward! In addition to all the benefits of PRSA National membership, we offer sector-specific professional development training, an e-newsletter, networking opportunities and more. If you have worked in public relations for less than five years, our Professional Interest Section can help you advance your career and distinguish yourself from other new professionals.

The New Professionals Section is for public relations and communication professionals who are new to the profession, having less than five years of experience. With almost 500 members, this community allows you to network with peers that share your professional commitment and understand the unique challenges that new pros face. Through newsletters, mentoring, and webinars we help you build critical knowledge and skills, which is the best way to accelerate your career advancement.
