

Travel and Tourism Section

The PRSA Travel and Tourism Section provides the tips, tactics and connectivity needed to take travel, tourism and hospitality professionals to the next level in their careers. We provide members continuing education, networking and media access via our industry-leading annual conference, webinars, online resources and social forums @PRSATravel.

Engage with the nation's top travel media, thought leaders and strategists at the PRSA Travel and Tourism annual conference. In addition to building a nationwide network of travel and tourism colleagues, conference attendees gather trends, forecasts and fresh perspectives while tracking the evolving media landscape and refining their craft as strategic communicators.

This focused group of more than 500 professionals is passionate about the power of travel to change lives and build communities. The Travel and Tourism Section is for public relations and communication professionals who specialize in tourism and/or hospitality, including those who represent state and national tourism offices, destination marketing organizations, agencies, hotels, resorts, airlines, cruise lines, transportation companies, attractions, restaurants, tour operators, travel brands and anyone working in the field of travel.
