

Expand your Impact

Volunteer Leadership in Action

YOUR NEXT STEPS WITH THE AMERICAN CANCER SOCIETY

Wondering what opportunities are available for you to ignite your American Cancer Society volunteer journey? Check out the professional development opportunities the American Cancer Society offers in communities across the country. Opportunities are waiting for you at all levels of your career.

Local Boards of Directors

Area boards provide strategic volunteer leadership to the American Cancer Society which accelerates our mission, increases relevance, and generates revenue. They are composed of dedicated leadership volunteers empowered to develop and execute market plans in a specific geography.

CEOs Against Cancer

CEOs Against Cancer® is a unique group of influential executives committed to their companies and communities – helping to save lives while improving their company's bottom line.

COLLEGES AGAINST CANCER

Colleges Against Cancer is our volunteer program for college students. Groups of students can form official clubs to host programs focused on fundraising, patient support, research, and advocacy.

Find your perfect fit through opportunities for professional development with other members and network with current and emerging leaders across a variety of industries.

Contact;
Jacqueline.Jacques@cancer.org

Associate board

Opportunities for young professionals committed to the American Cancer Society's mission. Support the work of the Young Professionals or Associate Board of Ambassadors work in your by working on projects or serve as a member of the overall committee.

GenNow Network

The GenNow Network is a powerful network of young professionals nationwide who are emerging leaders both in their own chosen industry and within the American Cancer Society.

The Young Leaders Caucus is for people with a passion for advocacy work. It's a great opportunity for those aged 18-35 to connect virtually and engage in cancer advocacy throughout the year. Legislative Ambassadors play an important role in helping to make fighting cancer a top priority with federal, state, and local elected officials.

Corporate Partnerships

Does your company or organization support causes employees care about? Enhance your brand image and strengthen your team by working together for the greater good. Reach out today to learn more about what getting your organization involved can do.